Digital Mobile Solution

PC LINK provides end-to-end mobile application development and distribution services to clients.

Our three step process:

- ✔ Define your mobile strategy
- ✔ Develop you mobile solution
- ✔ Market your mobile solution

Mobile Strategy Consulting

We work with our clients to understand their business objectives and help them decide whether they really need a mobile application. We advise clients about what kind of mobile solution would best serve their business goals. We help clients not only conceptualize and design the application, but also decide which platform is best suited for their application based on their business goals and targeted audience.

Mobile Application Development

PC Link offers mobile application development for various platforms including iPhone/iPad, Android, and Windows Mobile. Mobile applications developed by PC Link offer a rich and compelling user experience for customers.

Multi-Platform Development

PC Link can develop a mobile solution that can be deployed on multiple platforms with minimal incremental costs for clients who choose that option.

Porting Solutions

For clients who already have a mobile application on one platform and want to have a similar application on other platforms, we offer porting services, for example, porting an iPhone application to the Android Platform.

Mobile Application Marketing

With the rapid increase recently in the number of mobile applications available in mobile marketplaces, companies offering mobile applications are struggling with how to stand out from the rest and become more visible to their target customers. PC Link helps clients market their mobile solution to make it visible to their target.
